TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 4.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE EVENING EDITION PER YEAR.....

VOL. 29.....NO. 9,968

Entered at the Post-Office at New York as sec

The Average Number of "WORLDS"

PRINTED AND SOLD EVERY DAY DURING THE MONTH OF NOVEM-

307,563.

This is the Largest Monthly Average ever reached by THE WORLD, and is beyond Comparison with any other newspaper.

NO STEP BACKWARD.

If the President's Message can be accepted s an indication of his party's policy, the Democracy is to take no backward step. Having cast ande the advice of timeservers and traitors and planted itself firmly on the constitutional principles of JEFFERSON and JACKSON, that unnecessary taxation is the plunder of the people under the flimsy cover of assumed law, the Democratic party is to continue to occupy that patriotic and lofty ground, and to appeal to the good sense of an enlightened country for approval.

That is right. There is every reason why the party should be well satisfied with its sition. In the recent election it was indorsed by a majority of the electors of the United States. Gov. Hill, who championed the MILLS bill in all his speeches during an active campaign, was elected in New York by an increased vote, and with New York the Democracy obtained a majority in the States large enough to have elected a President entirely acceptable to the

It is creditable to Mr. CLEVELAND that he adheres so firmly to the true Democratic doctrine of honest taxation and a fair and equal tariff for the support of the Government. But it is to be regretted that he did not make the issue he now so vigorously justifies two years before the recent election.

WHERE THE CREDIT BELONGS.

Passengers on the new, convenient and ne Twenty-third Street Railroad cars, when interviewed yesterday and asked to what influence they attributed the banishment of the bobtail, answered with singular nimity, " To THE EVENING WORLD."

While appreciating the high compliment we are not desirous of taking to ourselves more credit than is justly our own due. The city press with unsignificant exceptions has been our ally in the attacks on the abominable bobtail system. Especial credit is to be given Coroner MESSEMER for the intelligence and firmness with which he pressed the inquiry into the causes of the fatal accident to Mrs. Levr., and to that prosecution the change of system on the Twenty-third street line is in a great measure due. The Evening World all in its power to strengthen the Coroner's hands, and certainly is justified in claiming proper credit for its share in creating that public opinion which made the proing that public opinion which made the proceedings so successful and effective.

MOTHERS-IN-LAW AND BICYCLES.

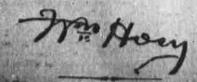

ASHLEY B. JOHNSON, who was arrested at Canandaigua yesterday charged with stealing a bicycle, is a smart youth for one who ants only twenty birthday anniversaries He married a young wife when he ought to have been at school, and at once plunged into water made hot by a motherin-law. He alleges that it was by the mother-in-law that he was driven to evil habits, but that excuse will scarcely be accepted as valid. He stole a bicycle, and if he had sumply committed the theft to fly away-or rather to wheel away and be at rest, his plea in extenuation might be good. But the fact is that he sold the eycle to obtain money with which to play draw poker. Besides, he also made free with a horse and afterwards with a horse and buggy, and three times broke jail and escaped when arrested for his offenses.

So we can see no good reason why Ashley should not suffer the penalty of the law for his misdeeds. His plea of too much motherin-law should not save him from a taste of

The men who told PHIL DALY to " hold up his hands " mistook their customer. PHIL is good at calling other people's hands, but not in throwing up his own. It is a pity that the sturdy and fearless "sport" was not supplied with a gun. Had he been the men who attacked him would never have

On the subject of Civil-Service Reform which gave so much interest to the opening of Mr. CLEVELAND'S Administration, the President says in his messagebless us, we cannot find the paragraph. Kever mind, we will defer comments on what he says till our next issue.

OUR AUTOGRAPH COLLECTION.

GLEAMS OF SUNSHINE.

CHATTER OF THE LIGHT-HEARTED FRA-TERNITY OF WITS. The First.

[From Fine.]
Ned—I never told a lie in my life. Jack-This, then, is the first ? In the Dressing-Room. "Polly, you remind me of the mirror you are ooking into."

"Why so ?"
"Because you are a good lookin-g-lass."

Reversing the Process. Wigghall—Ah, good morning, doctor; I un-lerstand you were called to Chicago to ampubr. Famous—You are slightly mistaken. I amputated the young lady.

Son Showers Not Wanted.

Flattey-It's raining, boys! De Pigster-Oh, well, never mind that, Flattie, old sox; but if it gets to raining girls, please notify me!

[From the Boston Franscript.]
Mrs. Brown-Tell me, Nellie, was your huspand much embarrassed when he proposed to you?

Mrs. Younghusband—Not nearly so much as he was after the bills for our wedding reception came in.

Giving Himself Away.

"Cne of you boys has been stealing raisins again; I have found the seeds on the floor. Which one of you was it?"
Tommy—It wasn't me. I swallowed the seeds in mine.

A Good Mixture.

Mrs. Alexander Tulliner, of Frankfort, Kentucky, claims to have been cured of paralysis by "faith, electricity and good Bourbon whiskey."
The proportions in which the ingredients were taken is not mentioned.

Senator Evarte's Wittleism.

[From the Philadelphia Times.]
The death of the elder Mumm recalls Senato Evarts's comparison of the administrations of the silent Grant and the teetotaller Hayes. "In the former," he said, "it was 'Mumm's cabi-net,' but ours is 'extra dry."

Attended To.

Smith (to Milkman)—I'll have to ask you chalk it up. Milkman (abstractedly)—Oh, that's all been attended to—oh—er—beg your pardon; certainly, take your own time.

Lucteal Plumbing.

[From the Chicago Pribane.]
The little girl from the city was on a visit to her uncle in the country and was making her first attempt at milking a cow. "Uncle Zeb," she said in some perplexity, after several fruitless efforts, "I wish you would show me how you turn the milk on."

An Ontgrown Poem.

[From the Epoch.]
Editor (to long-haired stranger)—This is no barber-shop, my friend. Stranger-I know it sir, but I have a poen here which, from one point of view, is likely to be a trifle rapid. The public will go wild over it. I want to know if you can't give me enough on it to get a hair cut.

Marriage a Pailure.

[From Peck's Sun.] "Well, old boy, you will go duck shooting with me?" and she said as I was drunk all the time, anyhow it was refreshing to know that I was going where semething might happen to me—shoot myself, or get drowned, you know."

Nice pleasant party, your wife."

Yes, dear thing, she always has some funny little reply like that to make, and I don't know how I should live without her—let's go in and have suthin'."

A Prelude to Winter.

Or feel a snowball trailing down his back? He Knew Where She Hailed From.

(From Nme.)
She tripped into Macy's one day last week, saved herself from falling by a strenuous effort, and brought up at the house-furnishing counter. " I'd like to see the braziers," she said.

ing them over she selected one and remarked,
"The bars on this eeem to be a bit far apart for catfish, but I think it will answer. Can you send it?"
"Certainly, madam," responded the clerk.
"The next express for Pittsburg leaves in half an hour." They were produced, and after carefully look

WORLDLINGS.

Mrs. Morton's eldest daughter. Edith to a young lady of fifteen. She is described as a very pretty girl, with an excellent education and Preparations that are being made for the Chinese Emperor's marriage, which will take place next February, indicate that it will be a most gorgeous affair. It is estimated that the entire amount of the bills His Oriental Majesty will

A. H. Colquitt, who has been re-elected to the United States Senate from Georgia, is now sixty-four years old. He is a large, handsome man of impressive appearance and is known in the councils of the Methodist Episcopal Church. about $300,000.

Charles S. Dresslein, a stenographer, who died in Chicago a few days ago, was the "offitook all the reports of spiritual communicat

Timely Caution. [From Texas Siftings,] 0

Old Gentleman (earnestly)-Young man, never yet took a drink out of that dear old flask that I didn't look around to see what kind of a crowd I was in. Take a small snifter, my friend; those goods will make an old woman with the numms feel happy.

A PUBLIC SERVICE.

It Was "The Evening World" that Knocked Out the Juggernaut.

Passengers on the New Cars Agree in This Verdict.

It Was a Good Fight and a Victory Well Won.

An EVENING WORLD reporter boarded haif a dozen cars on the Twenty-third street line this morning to learn just what the people thought of the new regime, and to whom was due the credit for the change.

Twenty-two passengers were interviewed by the reporter. They were chiefly welldressed and solid-looking business men, and to the question. "Do you think THE EVEN-ING WORLD is entitled to the credit for having removed the bobtail cars from this road ?" the answer in fifteen of the twentytwo cases was : " Indeed I do."

Dr. Henry V. Weldman, of 404 West Fortyeventh street, was the first man spoken to. The question mentioned above was fired at short range, and promptly came the answer; ' Indeed I do. These cars fill a long-felt want, and I think THE EVENING WORLD deserves the credit."

F. R. Edwards, in business at 28 West Twenty-third street, said: " If people had to ride on these cars as much as I do they would thank THE EVENING WOBLD for giving us thank THE EVENING WORLD for giving us this change. I give THE EVENING WORLD full credit."

J. W. Rosenthal, of 2704 Eighth avenue, said: "THE EVENING WORLD deserves more credit than anybody, and I wish it would follow up its good work and abolish all the bobtails."

F. M. Darracott, of 35 Broadway, said: "I think all the papers deserve our thanks, but THE EVENING WORLD is entitled to the lion's share. I wish it would tackle the other roads."

roada,"

I. Kraushaar, of 33½ Division street, said:

"It is a great improvement. I give The Evening World credit."

John Claremont, of 218 West Twenty-third street, said: "The credit, no doubt, belongs to The Evening World. I thank that paper for its successful efforts to give us better cars."

Cars."

Dr. M. A. Lewis, lately connected with the Homocopathic Hospital, said: "Most assuredly the credit belongs to The Evening World, I don't see who else could claim suredly the credit belongs to THE EVENING WORLD. I don't see who else could claim it."

Dr. Lewis's friend, Mr. C. F. Holcomb, of Southington, Conn., said: "I only know what the doctor has told me. THE EVENING WORLD must be a great paper."

The reporter coincided with Mr. Holcomb's views and then tackled F. P. Bassett, of 80 Joralemon street, Brooklyn. He said: "I only know that your paper made a big fight and deserves credit for it."

A. E. Aldridge, of Fishkill Landing, on the Hudson, reads THE EVENING WORLD every day. Said he: "I have watched the progress of the fight, and surely THE EVENING WORLD is entitled to all the credit. The placing of these cars on the road will doubtless save many lives."

Albert Meyer, with the Denman Thompson company, said: "THE EVENING WORLD must take the credit. There is no other paper that can claim it."

L. H. Cohen, of 829 Lexington avenue, was enthusiastic over the victory. He said: "THE EVENING WORLD and know that it can claim the credit, and I am pleased to express my opinion."

James H. Cassidy, of 236 Seventh avenue, said: "I road THE EVENING World, and know that it can claim the credit justly. It made a noble fight."

Herman Lichtenstein, of 25 West Houston street, said: "To THE EVENING WORLD and know that it can claim the credit justly. It made a noble fight."

Herman Lichtenstein, of 25 West Houston street, said: "To THE EVENING WORLD as of the public thanks. Accept mine."

John Moran, of 221 West Fortieth street, said: "Your paper deserves the lion's share of the public thanks. Accept mine."

John Moran, of 54 Jackson street, thought THE EVENING WORLD as great paper. "It is euterprising and deserves credit for what it has done."

Joseph Noone, of 310 Hart street, Brooklyn, said that he had heardthat The Evening

Joseph Noone, of 310 Hart street, Brook-lyn, said that he had heard that The Evening World had combelled the jiggers to be taken world had combelled the piggers to be taken off.

Thomas J. Caslin, of 245 Third avenue, said: "Any enterprising paper deserves credit. As the most enterprising The Evenue World deserves the most credit."

Others concurred in the above opinions, but modestly declined giving their names.

There seems to be no doubt in the public mind as to what paper the credit is due for ridding this busy thoroughfare of the detestable bobtails.

Aside from the newspaper work in this matter, however, it should be remembered that Coroner Messemer did a vast deal of good service for the people. It was his able and energetic assistance that enabled The Evening World to successfully push its good fight.

THE BROOKLYN TELEGRAPHERS.

Their Annual Ball a Complete and Brilliant Success.

The Brooklyn Telegraphers held their annual reception and ball last evening at Rivers's Dancing Academy under the management of Messrs. B. C. Chase and R. C. McDonald.

McDonald.

It was one of the most select and enjoyable affairs ever given by the knights of the key. There were no "breaks," "bad copies," or "wrong checks," and it was in the wee sma' hours when "30" was given. Mr. H. I. Jolly acted as floor manager. Among those present were.

Jolly acted as floor manager. Among those present were:

B. C. Chase and wife, H. I. Jolly and wife, R. C. McDonaid and Mra. M. Benson, J. C. Watts, Misses Marks and Platt, James J. Burks and wife, J. A. Griswold, Miss Ella Eager, Walter L. Rayall and wife, A. W. Case and Miss Josie Toohey, of Newburg; E. Chant, Miss McDonaid, L. N. Kirschbaum and wife, V. Lent, Miss Coulsen, A. Park, Miss Davis, P. H. Boedrick, Miss Miller, W. E. Ashton, Mrs. and Miss Harvey, Otto Koch, Miss Emma Benedict, Capt. Welch and daughter, H. E. Dobson and wife, John B. Fontaine, the Misses Fontaine, F. E. Merrifield, Miss M. E. Butler, James Bulger, Miss Bulger, R. F. Doyle, Miss Hobson, J. C. Van Cura, Miss Josie Miller, Mike O'Brien, wife and daughter and Miss Mamie Gregg, S. A. Chase and wife, W. H. Brahe and Miss Gissel Brahe, F. A. Anderson and wife, J. B. Quinn, Miss Lixzie Lahey, F. R. Anderson and wife, J. B. Quinn, Miss Lixzie Lahey, F. R. Anderson and wife, J. B. Quinn, Miss Lixzie Lahey, F. R. Anderson and wife, J. H. Gibbons, Miss M. Cronin, John McGowan and wife, John J. Carroll, A. C. Lont, E. C. Fitzgerald and daughter, George Weiderman and wife, W. J. Hickey, Miss Cleary, John Merris and daughter, J. H. Gibbons, Miss E. Heanse, S. F. Magee, Miss R. Reeves M. Green, Miss Hartman, Chas. Cook, Miss Emma Benedict, B. J. Stromeyer, Misses Koster and Ahrens, D. MeCarthy, Miss Mahon, Thos, McCarthy, fr., and Miss Agnes Lane, T. Young, L. J. Wood, Owen Rennedy, Martin Dixon.

The Tammany Society held a regular monthly meeting last night. Civil Justice Charles M. liancy was elected a Sachem in the place of the Clancy was elected a Sachem in the place of the late George H. Forster. After the meeting, the big and little chiefs were introduced to D. B. Shouga, of Youngstown, O., ex-chief of the Seneca tribe of this State. Mr. Shouga is a full-blooded Indian and a thorough-bred Democrat. He is in the city on a visit and thought he would pay his respects to the Wigwam Indians. The Tammanyites showed him the relies in their possession. He caused great laughter when he asked to be shown the scalps of the County Democracy. Bernard Martin was surprised when Mr. Shouga shock his head on an invitation being tendered him to have "some firewasts."

Molly—And I'm sure you liked Parce, dear, didn't you, now?

Poly (inst back)—It was perfectly lovely, dear; in fact, as the French themselves say, too; waster.

BOYS' OVERCOATS. 500 strictly all wool Kilt Suits, sizes 350 All-Wool Overcoats, with and with-out capes, value $4.00 and $5.00, at. 2 1.2 to 5 years, one and two pieces; 1.99160 Imported Cheviot Cape Overcosts at 250 Blater's Blue Triect Overcosts, with and without cape, trimmed with black Astrachan, value $10.00 at 10.00 at 10. nearly all are imported cassimeres, made 3.89 in combination effects, value $5.00, our 5.00 100 all-wool Cassimere Suits, value

84.00, at - - -

5.00 years, value $6.00, at . $3.98 price

BLOOMINGDALES'.

worth $9.00, bought by us at a great sacrifice and sold accordingly for $6.00; we drop the price to 160 Brown and Gray Melton Overcoats, velvet collars, silk

100 Blue Raritan Overcoats

56 all-wool Blue Chinchilla Overcoats, handsomely made and trimmed, a bargain at $12.00; price serge lining

Genuine Gray Irish Freize Overcoats, double stitched, raw edges, splendid value for $20.00 : price

Chinchilla Overcoats, lined with best quality heavy black satin, a regular $30.00 coat, for $14.98 The greatest yet! All-wool

All-wool Blue and Oxford

Black Castor Beaver Overcoats, double stitched, raw edges, lined with all-wool flan-

OPEN THIS EVENING. BLOOMINGDALE BROS. 3D AVE. AND 59TH

"LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY."

"Little Lord Fauntleroy," like "The Old Homestead," relies very little upon dramatic effect and theatrical situations. It has nothing to do with the too conventional love-sick here and the gurgling heroine. It is even daringly unusual enough to end without a marriage or the stereotyped suggestion of that necessary event. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" appeals to human nature; it goes straight to the heart through any amount of thicknesses and it charms by its own intrinsic beauty.

I sat with damp eyes through three long acts last night. There was not one single effort apparent in the exquisite pathos of this delightful little play; there was no evident desire to even mildly harrow the feelings of the audience. Yet I doubt if any play yet produced this season is as beautifully pathetic as this of, Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's creation, and I also doubt if any emotion has been called forth by such harmless means or with as beneficial results.

I suppose I'm too hardened a sinner to indulge in moist eyes very often. I pretended I had a cold last night. But I hadn't. It was sheer emotion, and I feel in a better temper with the world to-day, now that I find I can be touched. Though "Little Lord |Fauntleroy" can be criticised in spots, its merits are so great and so far in excess of its faults that these can almost be forgotten.

The story of the play is, of course, Dorincourt has married an American girl and been "cast off" by His Lordship; how the three sons die, and how the boy of Capt. Errol, the third son, becomes the Earl of Dorincourt's heir, Lord Fauntleroy, goes to England, over-comes his grandfather's dislike and brings about as happy a reconciliation as is possible.

I heard some one say last night that the prinoo good to live, and that in case he were spared he would grow up to be an insufferable young prig. I do not agree with this. Little Lord Fauntleroy was not so hopelessly good as that.

He was thoroughly boyish. We heard of him running races with a bootblack, "loafing around the grocery store and behaving himself just as nine boys out of ten would do.

Mrs. Burnett has accentuated the beauty of and she has done admirable work. To be sure, little Lord Fauntleroy is not the kind of boy Hoyt would have imagined. The "Brass Monkey's" author would have exhibited him tying a tin kettle to a dog's tail or upsetting a pail of water over his maternal parent's head. Mrs. Burnett; has comphasized the loveliness of the boy's character. Hoyt would have reduced its weaknesses to imbecility and effaced the line that divided boyishness from idiocy. The introduction of the Minna episode into chis pure little play is inartistic. It is like drop-ping mud into a crystal goblet. To be sure, shocking contrast as this. The woman who 'lived with " the Earl of Dorincourt's good-fornothing son, and who has the manners of a courtesan, is out of place in Mrs. Burnett's little

Yet nothing can entirely mar the beauty of the play. Its success is beyond question. The cast was admirable. George Parkhurst concast was admirable. George Parkhurst con-tributed an excellent Dickensonian char-acter sketch as Mr. Hobbs, the grocer; Miss Kathryn Kidder made a great deal of the part of "dearest," and Frank E. Lamb did well as Dick, the bootblack. Of little Elsie Leslie it is impossible to speak without superlatives. She bore the burden of a part as long as that of Hamlet on her sweet little shoulders, and she bore it not only without effort but with apparent ease. J. H. Gilmour, as the crusty old Earl, showed what he could do after having shown what he couldn't do in "Mr. Barnes, of New York." He is an artist, and I beg his pardon for ever having thought night. The Broadway Theatre has at last come

MAN FROM MONKEY.

(Continued from First Page.)

doubts upon this theory of Cuvier and Agassiz, by pointing out that the indisputable records of geology and paleontology prove that the time over which our historical records and observations extend is infinitely small when compared with the millions of years that our earth has travelled in its orbit, subject to progress charge of very size kinds. years that our earth has travelled in its orbit, subject to enormous change of various kinds, resulting in successive modifications of the flora and fauna, of which the testimony of the rocks are the evidence. These prove that a gradual evolution from lower and simpler forms of life to higher and more differentiated ones is one of nature's laws, and that in the case of the human species it has become evident that man, far from being deteriorated from a primitive perfect form, was originally a savage brute, living in forests and caves, contemporaneous with now extinct animals, such as the mammoth, mastodon and cave bear."

and cave bear."

Dr. Vander Weyde argued that just in proportion to the progress made by the monkey towards inter-communication the brain increased and the tail decreased in size, so that the highest order of monkeys have no tails at all.

ta all.

The late lamented Mr. Crowley, of Central Park, it will be recalled, had no caudal adornment whatever, and it must be admitted that he displayed considerable mind power.

THE ORIGIN OF LANGUAGE.

The lecturer held that the more perfect structure of the giottis was the result of the efforts to communicate by audible sounds, and this effort, if successful, forced brain development. This in turn reacted on the glottis and language was formed.

Withelm Blech, who devoted himself for years to the study of language among the lowest races, spent fifteen years among the Hottentots, next to the Papuans the lowest order of man, and he arrives at this conclusion.

ion.
The Biblical account giving the origin for The Biblical account giving the origin for three races of man in the three sons of Noah. Dr. Vander Weyde says, is faulty, in that it provides no origin for the American Indian, but he accounts for this by calling attention to the fact that in the days of the making of the Bible the American race was unknown and no origin for them was necessary.

Biumenbach divided man into five races the black, or negroes: the brown, or Malsys and Australians; the yellow, or Mongolusus and Esquimaux; the red, or American Indians, and the white, or Caucasians. He considered them all descended casians. He considered them all descended from one white perfect pair—Adam and E.c., and sscribed their different aspects to influ-ence of climate; in fact, to a backward evo-lution.

We have no time to speak of classification

We have no time to speak of classification based on other teatures than the color of the skin, but will only mention that based on the hair of the head, which is a very characteristic feature of distinction. There are four races with woolly hair, namely, the Papuans and Hottentots, who have woolly hair unequally growing in tufts, while the negroes and Kafiirs have it equally distributed over the scalp, like sheep's wool.

"At one side of the platform," said the speaker, alluding to his pictures, arranged in groups. "we have twelve different types of apes arranged in progressive order, from the lowest, or pig-like monkey, to the highest, the gorilla, or manilike. The rate of progress between them is similar to that of the progress shown at the other side of the platform, where the twelve races of man into which modern investigations have made it necessary to divide mankind are exhibited, from the lowest or the Papuan to the highest. "The highest monkey appears more intelligent than the lowest race of mankind, so that in regard to looks the two races appear to over-lap.

Sure it is that there is far more difference between the lowest of the human race and the highest than between the lowest man and the highest ape."

The lecturer pointed out on a colored map the distribution of the different races over the different regions of the earth's surface, at the same time describing the races and explaining Haeckel's hypothesis that the principal origin or eradie of humanity was a large continent, which he called Lemuria, after the most manilike ape, the Lemur, and where he is inclined to place the seat of Paradise, which, by the immense changes in the level of the earth's surface, is now baris lunder the waters of the Indian Ocean, and gradually sank while the Arlatic Continent, with the Hinainvas, was upheaved.

"The lowest of them are the native Australians, who are about as near to their Simian, or monkey, ancestors as the woolly-headed races. The next higher race make a great contrast with the five former. They are far more intelligent, and have become a seafaring people, distributing itself much further from their original homes than was the case with the five others, who remained on the islands of the Indian Ocean, which gave them birth, and which most likely are only the tops of the mountains of the large continent when the constant sinking and consequent submersion referred to caused the inhabitants to retreat to the mountains, where by their insular isolation there was no progress, as there was no struggle to was no progress, as there was no struggle to secure the survival of the fittest.

CIVILIZATION'S CRADER.

"On the continent of Asia, of which India at last became the cradle of civilization, this spread overland westward, while the Malayan race went as far West as Madagascar, on the African coast, leaving the Hottentots, ne-groes and Kaffirs in possession of the African continent.

"The next in the order of development are the Mongolians, a very numerous race peopling the greater part of Asia and extending to Asia Minor. Turkey and even Hungary, where the descendants of that race are quite numerous.

"Next in order comes the Arctic race, under which name Haeckel comprises the Esquimaux and Laplanders.

"Then the American Indians, including the Patagonians, famous for their large size.

Patagonians, famous for their large size.

"Then the Dravidas, in Northern India.
Next, the Nubians, in Northern and Central

Next, the Nubians, in Northern and Central Africa.

"And at last we have the Mediterraneans, named so by Hacckel because they inhabit the surroundings of that historical sea. They include the Caucasians, in the mountains of that name; the Basques, in Spain; the Semitte race, or Jews, in Arabia and North Africa. The Aryan race is probably descended from the Dravidas, in Northern India.

India.

"The three higher races have the hair, not so rigid and straight as the five former, but it is of finer texture and has a tendency to curl, while the beard is much more developed among them than among the nine lower races.

Dr Vander Weyde said that it was absurd

Dr Vander Weyde said that it was absurd to suppose that all these races sprsing from one single pair. As absurd as to suppose all species of dogs to have come from one pair, and cited the developments in geological research showing that there had been many animals of which the history of the world makes no mention, indicating a long prehistoric age. Then he went on:

"In the same way the anthropoid ape, which was the nearest progenitor of man, be came utterly extinct by the competition of its superiors, while by continued struggle for existence the most fitted only survived; in that we are the lucky descendants of those who proved themselves most fittest to survive their inferiors.

OTHER ABGUMENTS FOR EVOLUTION. "In addition to the Geological and Paleon. tological records there are other "reasons which drive naturalists to the acceptance of the theory of evolution. One of them is the study of embryology, proving that the embryo of a turtle, chicken, dog and man are perceptibly alike during the first period of development, whi e later the differences appear; for instance, in the dog, the tail develops much, the brain little; while in man the tail disappears and the brain develops enormously.

enormously.

"It has been stated that the history of an individual is the key to the history of the species. If this view is correct and the empryo of man begins like that of animals of the lowest type, the origin of the race must have belonged to the lowest type," Delonged to the lowest type."

The figures in the cuts are as follows: 1. Mandril; 2. Parian; 3. Pig-monkey: 4. Budeng; 5. Nose-monkey: 6. Globon: 7. young orang-ontang; 8. young chimpanzee: 9. young gorilla: 10. old orangoutang; 11. old chimpanzee: 12. old gorilla: 13. Papuan; 14. Hottentot; 15. Kafir, 16. Negro; 17. Amatralian; 18. Malayan; 19. Mongolian; 20. Arctic or Eaquiman; 21. American Indian; 22. Drayida; 23. Nubian; 24. Mediterranean or Caucasian.

A SAFE, sure cure for coughs and colds. ADAMSON BOTANIC BALSAM, KINSMAN, 25th st. and 4th ave.

Thousands

Who have been troubled with that disagr

MISS GILLETTE CAUGHT THEM ALL.

The Vermont School Teacher Played the Democrat and Republican Alike. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Boston, Dec. 4. -Here is a letter from

Taunton to a morning paper: Taunton to a morning paper:

After reading your account in this morning's paper concerning the success of Miss Gillette, of Randolph, Vt., would beg leave to state that I am another "sucker" in the turkey business.

Miss G. 's note in my turkey, though accidentally destroyed, is still fresh in my memory. It was political and in sympathy with "Grover and the Democrats."

If Mayor O Brien had received my turkey, he might have added a diamond ring to his gold watch.

For my part I played the "chump" to the value of a pair of gold-plated car-rings, and I would pay out fifty times their cost if I could shut the mouths of my numerous friends who are calling me "chump" and "sucker."

I am proud, and it is some comfort to learn this morning that I am in such distinguished company as His Honor, the Mayor. Yours truly, Harrison Dunnam.

Class of Jigger Patrons Who Mourn for

While one portion of the community is giving thanks for the removal of the bobtail cars from the Twenty-third street line, another class is doing just-the opposite.

Those of the latter class see no beauty in he rolling drawing rooms the place of the stuffy little jigger. Neither do they appreciate the brand-new conductor with his modest uniform.

If they had their way about it, indeed, the jigger would be once again on the track.

These peculiarly dissatisfied individuals are a portion of the sporting fraternity which attends the Clifton races and comes home broke.

which attends the Cliffon races and comes home broke.

Before the new parior roller was substituted for the jigger, these gentlemen derived much comfort from the knowledge that if they could not beat the races they could beat their car fare home from the ferry. It was only five cents, but they took more pride in making it than if they had hit a 20 to 1 shot and got all the money.

Not infrequently it happened that while passengers were clinging to the roof and holding on behind but three fares were registered during the trip from west to east.

On the last trip of the jiggers the sports celebrated by not paying fare, and when the driver asked, pleaded and finally begged for their fares, he was coolly informed that they wanted the 5 cents for luck, or as a memento of the departed and defunct jigger.

The Tale of Hotel _ Inters. Located at the Sinrievany House are W. S. Gerity of Elmira; E. B. Whitaker, of Boston; W. G. Leland, of Binghampton, and S. J. Fisher, of Allentown, Pa.

Prominent at the Hotel Brunswick are G. A. Talbot, of Boston; H. A. Tillingshast, of Providence; Salem Hyde, of Syracuse, and G. C. Taylor, of Islip, L. I.

Registered at the Fifth Avenue are J. L. Hum-phrey, of Boston; H. D. Cooke, of Washington; H. M. Van Zandt, of Harrisburg, Pa., and J. A. Berdler, of Cleveland. O.

Stephen A. Byan, of Atlanta, Ga.; Alex Euston, of St. Louis; W. P. Rankin, of Nash-ville, and R. Forsyth, of Chicago, are con-spicuous at the Hoffman House.

FROM MONTANA.

HELENA, M. T., Jan. 26, 1888. GENTLEMEN: I have taken a great many of Dr. C.
McLarr's Celemented Liver Pitts and find them to be a wonderful pill—all that you claim for them. They act like a charm in case of billoueness, sick headcols, dysentery, &c.

Mrs. Henry Winkleman.

Box 954.

popsis, hearthure, indigestion, malaris, pimples on face and body, impure blood, &c., by using regularly Dm. C. McLane's Onlemated Liver Pills, prepared only by Planning Bros., Pittsburg, Pa. Price 35 cents. Sold by all druggists. Insist upon inving the genuine Dis C. McLann's Leven Pilla, prepared by Floming Bros., of Pittsburg, Pa., the marks being fail of mini-tions of the mame of McLann, spelled differently, but of the same promundation. Always made succeed to woods "Flaming Bros., Pittsburg, Fa.," on the trac-

